Fieldsketch challenge

In Geography we can record what we see when we are out and about by drawing a fieldsketch.

This is a simple picture of what we can see but has detailed annotations to describe the scene. An annotation is more detailed than a label, for example a label might be 'sky'. An annotation would be 'bright blue sky with only a small number of clouds.' Fieldsketches should not take long to draw, it is the annotations that are important. Have a go at drawing a fieldsketch from a window in your house. What can you see? A good fieldsketch is drawn with a pencil, inside a box, has the horizon drawn, the main features that can be seen, has detailed annotations and a title to say what it is a fieldsketch of.

Geography in the news

Find a news story that is about something linked to Geography. Write a short summary of the story and how it links to Geography. You could look at the BBC news webpage to get started.

Summer postcard

Summer holidays will be a bit different this year. Imagine you could go anywhere in the world on holiday, where would you go? Do some research into your chosen location (where is it? What is the weather like? What would you be able to see or do?) Produce a postcard as if you had been to this place on holiday. Draw a picture of the place and then write about it as if you were there on holiday. You could lay it out like this example.
